A Gurian Model School

Michael Gurian, educator and author, is the foremost authority on gender-based learning. There are only seventeen Gurian Model Schools in the U.S. and St. John's Jesuit Academy is one of them. Academy teachers are trained by Gurian-certified professionals and use the latest high-impact instructional strategies in every aspect of educating boys including a Magis schedule of extended periods to support lessons and classroom activities.

The Academy

ST. JOHN'S JESUIT ACADEMY IS A MIDDLE SCHOOL FOR YOUNG MEN IN GRADES SIX, seven and eight. Founded in 2004, SJJA shares the campus with St. John's Jesuit High School, which opened on Airport Highway in 1965 as a four-year, college preparatory high school.

The Academy is unlike any other middle school in northwest Ohio, providing a level of educational excellence in the Jesuit tradition – a tradition that is more than 450 years old. At St. John's Jesuit Academy, our young students are nurtured as part of the Jesuit philosophy of cura personalis, or care for the entire person, an educational philosophy that inspires our teachers to listen to students and to build relationships with them.

Our goal is to prepare our students in mind, body and spirit so that they grow strong as individuals and develop a foundation for success in high school, in college, and in life. At St. John's Jesuit Academy, we believe that the middle school years for boys are important as they head toward adulthood leaving childhood behind. It is critical for boys at this age to take responsibility for their learning—a responsibility and a discipline that will last a lifetime.

Outstanding Academics

ONE OF THE REASONS THAT ST. JOHN'S JESUIT is so highly regarded among educators and national colleges and universities is because it stresses a curriculum that challenges our students. The same is stressed in the Academy where our students take a full course load that includes English, science, math, social studies, theology, world language, fine arts, enrichment and physical education.

For high-achieving Academy students, high school classes are offered in math, science, and world languages. St. John's Jesuit provides academic assistance for all students through its A+ Learning Center which is staffed with full time learning specialists and tutors available in every subject. The Academy works closely with each student to set academic goals that are both measurable and attainable.

8th Grade Capstone Project

Every 8th Grader is required to complete a capstone project prior to graduation. The 8th Grade Capstone Project teaches personal responsibility, accountability, and small group collaboration—skills essential to almost any future career. The tasks involved are the foundation of success in high school and challenge Academy 8th graders to read, think, write, create, act, evaluate, and document a significant event. Students transition from simply knowing to doing. Students are asked to consider a topic, then analyze, evaluate, research, and interpret an aspect of it. Next, they are assigned to work in small groups, identifying a topic-related problem or challenge, then devising and implementing a solution. At the end of this process, students assess the impact of their actions. Finally, students work in groups to create a documentary video to explain their processes and make an oral presentation before a Faculty Evaluation Committee.

Hands-on Learning

Hands-on learning is paramount in the Academy. The school year has a calendar that is filled with exciting field trips to places that reinforce the curriculum such as Space Camp in Huntsville, Alabama; the Cincinnati Freedom Center; the Newport Aquarium in Kentucky; and trips to Washington, D.C. and Chicago. Classes also visit the Toledo Museum of Art; Holy Rosary Cathedral; and the OSU Stone Lab. As a benefit to enrollment at grade six, SJJA offers the 2+2+2 Program. Each 6th grader can choose from a list provided by the Administrator, two overnight field trips, two school-day field trips, and two full-day field trips at no additional cost. These opportunities enhance the learning experience as well as the bond between classmates.

On campus, the Makers' Space is a lab in which students can learn, collaborate, work in teams, and create objects or projects using software and tools geared toward a Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics (STEM) education. The Makers' Space can be used for working on Lego Robotics, building R/C airplanes, coding with drones and Sphero Sprk+ robots, and using 3-D printers to create and print models. Additional technologies have recently enhanced a student's experience in the Makers' Space including zSpace VR/AR computer stations, podcasting equipment, and white board tables ideal for group projects. Students learn more about many content areas while also being able to view and manipulate models in virtual/augmented reality. The Makers' Space is always adapting to new technologies that accommodate the creativity of every kind of student.

Spiritual Formation

The mission of St. John's Jesuit is to develop Christian leaders. St. John's is committed to teaching young men about the grace of God and living their faith each day as Men for Others. Faith is the foundation of the SJJ experience. Students attend Mass regularly, participate in theology classes, and attend annual class retreats where they can put aside daily pressures and concentrate on strengthening their relationship with God and each other.

SJJA promotes becoming men for others through Christian Service. Academy students are called to share their gifts and to reach out to improve the quality of life in our community. Campus Ministry is a welcoming place where structured activities and comforting conversations nurture a deep faith; in this environment, students begin to be developed as men for others. Even the youngest Titans give of their time and love to serve others. Students visit the elderly, collect food for the poor, and build relationships with those in need.

"The Academy is an inviting place where students can grow in their knowledge and practice of their faith. Service and retreat days supplement what students learn in the classroom, and regular opportunities to pray and to celebrate the Eucharist help develop their spiritual lives. Most importantly, the Academy offers a wholesome and caring environment in which Christ-like love characterizes the day." – FR. BRIAN LEHANE, S.J.

Social Development

Boys will be boys. They are active. They are noisy. They are funny. They are complex. They are growing and changing at a rapid rate. They are searching for who they are and for what they do best. They are accepted for who they are in the Academy!

Academy students gather weekly to bond and compete under the structure of a House System. The House System consists of six groups or “houses” comprised of students across grade level, interests, and background. Each house is named after a Jesuit saint and has designated colors; each selects a cardinal virtue that reflects their saint’s life. The House System has been re-established with plans for long-term success and a clear objective: creating relationships so every student in the Academy has a connection with fellow students and faculty.

Enrichment

The Academy offers a range of activities that allow boys to explore new worlds, including art, band, chorus, theater, special interest clubs, team sports, and leadership opportunities. Academy students perform in annual Christmas concerts, either singing in the Chorus or playing an instrument in the Middle School Orchestra. Academy students have multiple ways to try something new through the enrichment period. Offered during the school day, enrichment classes are student-inspired. Offerings rotate periodically and have included or currently include classes such as, esports, astronomy, athletics/fitness, self-defense, math enrichment and podcasting.

Special interest clubs have included an award-winning Lego Robotics Team, Chess Team, Book Club, Guitar Club, and Games Club. Academy students also have the opportunity to compete in the Geography Bee, History Bee, Math Counts, and Quiz Bowl. Students enjoy preparing for these national and state programs and competing with other middle school students to test their mastery of a specific subject.

A Place For Families

It's a family affair at the Academy! There are wonderful opportunities for families to connect and join in the fun at Academy activities. Family events are planned such as movie nights, fall tailgate parties, the Father/Son Golf Outing, New Family Welcome Dinner, Grandparent Mass & Breakfast, Muffins with Moms, Donuts with Dads, and more.

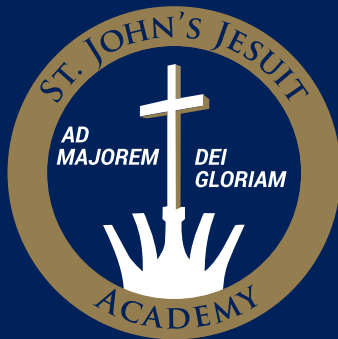

Titan Athletics

Boys love sports! 80% of Academy students participate in a sport. The Academy stays active with football, basketball, soccer, lacrosse, track, cross country, baseball, tennis, golf, wrestling, and indoor soccer teams.

The Academy competes locally in the Catholic Youth Organization (CYO) and various other leagues. Teams are coached by parent volunteers and SJJ faculty and staff.
